FROM THE PRINCIPAL'S DESK

"Time is the only capital that any human has and the only thing that he/she cannot afford to lose."
~Albert Einstein

Dear Parents & Students,

The patriotism displayed by each of my children in all the activities conducted on the occasion of 75 years of Independence was a delightful event to witness. My heartfelt thanks to all the parents for their cooperation and support. As we begin a new month that marks the completion of almost half of the academic session, let's understand the importance of being punctual and the importance of time in one's life.

Punctuality is not about being on time but about respecting one's own commitment to someone or something. When you are asked or expected to be somewhere at a particular time, it implies evidently that if you fail to be there at that particular time, either you will lose something or the person or event will, who has trusted you with something important.

What you will lose may be in any form like an opportunity to learn something new, to showcase your talent, or any other bigger opportunity that might decide your overall achievement in life. The different scenario might be when you have been trusted to promote, perform or just show up for an event or a person. In such a case, if you are late, you will not only lose that person's trust but will also build an impression of being careless and irresponsible as you have not ascertained your reliability by your presence on time. You may also miss a lot of fun as well.

Hence, students, as you get prepared for your life, do develop the virtue of punctuality as one of your best qualities that will undoubtedly be the first step to success. Small steps like making a daily routine, avoiding procrastination, leaving for school on time, and completing a scheduled task at the planned time are a few guidelines that will help in the process of inculcating punctuality in us.

Parents are requested to help school inculcate this valuable virtue of punctuality in the kids from an early age to help them combat the future challenges that life will fling at them with utmost confidence.

Have a Stupendous September! Thank you,

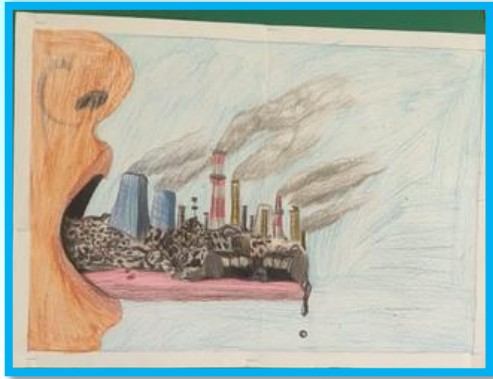

Regards,

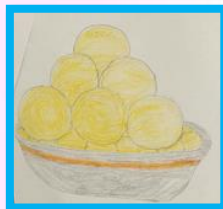

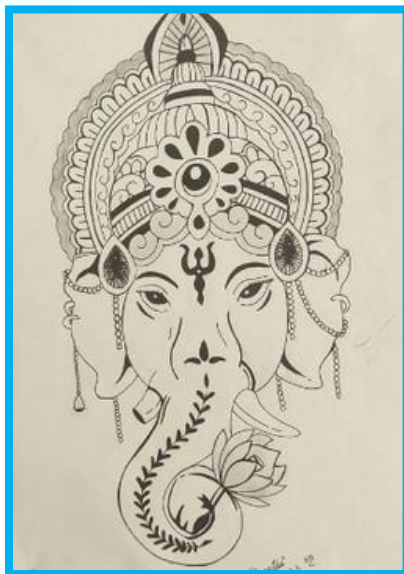

Mrs Ratula Saha,

Principal, NLLIS

MAKE ROOM FOR ELEPHANTS

I know the world's a crowded place,
And elephants do take up space,
But if it makes a difference, Lord,
I'd gladly share my room and board.

A baby elephant would do
But, if he brings his mother too,
There's not garage. He shouldn't mind
To elephants he's more than kind.

But I wonder that our Mum would I say
If the elephant's father came to stay!

DISCIPLINE

Once upon a time there were two neighbours, a teacher and an engineer. They were watering their plants. The teacher watered the plants with little water and didn't give much attention to them, whereas the engineer watered the plants with more water and gave more attention to them. The teacher's garden looked simple whereas the engineer's garden looked fuller and greener.

One night a heavy storm was there and the next morning when they both came out to inspect the damage caused to the gardens, the engineer saw that his plants were damaged whereas the teacher's garden was the same. The engineer was surprised seeing this and he went up to the teacher and asked, "How come nothing has happened to your garden, whereas my garden has been completely destroyed." The teacher smiled and said "You gave more attention to the plants and I gave them less attention, so my plants survived. You didn't allow the roots to do some part of the work whereas I have done it."

"The moral of the story is children are like plants, if everything is given to them then there is no hard work done by them."

Discipline is an essential part of life. If you want to achieve something you need to be disciplined. Without discipline nothing is possible. Gandhiji said "It is one of the essential part of everyone's life. If a person knows to control his mind and body when he is angry, he is disciplined." Hard-work, determination, and self-belief: other than this, discipline is one more important thing. Everyone is aware of the fact but don't know the meaning of it. It brings structure and stability. If discipline is not there everyone will do what they want and make mistakes without thinking about others. But does that mean we are bound to something? No, it is freedom, freedom from laziness, expectations.

Example: If you want to score in your annual exam you need to study hard. For this you need to prepare one chapter a day, do timely revision, planning and discussing problems with teachers. In this whole process you will find the bridge between your goal and achievement i.e. discipline. So we are able to run, work and survive in this world because of discipline.

Eco friendly Ganesha Making Session

(26.08.22)

On the occasion of Ganesh Chaturthi, NLLIS organised an "Eco-friendly Ganesha Making Session" in the campus for all grades with the objective to bring children close to the nature and understand the importance of choosing eco-friendly resources over non-biodegradable materials. As the children moulded the clay into the beautiful sculptures they went through a very invigorating, yet soothing feeling that was visible in their contented smile as they held their work of art in their hands. Tiny seeds were inserted into the sculptors so that that after the festival, they can plant it in a flowerpot and nurture the plant once the seed germinates.
